DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This action is responsive to an Amendment filed 1/22/2008. Claims 15-30 are pending. Claims 15, 19, 23, and 27 are amended. Claims 1-14 are canceled.

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments regarding claims 15, 19, 23, and 27, filed 1/22/2008, have been fully considered, but they are not persuasive.

Regarding claims 15, 19, 23, and 27, the applicant argues that Daniels does not disclose or suggest storing a program table ... simultaneously displaying a plurality of programs with respective request buttons for record reservation data, such that each displayed program has a corresponding request button for record reservation data. The examiner respectfully disagrees. Daniels discloses a system in which a user is provided access to a computer network source of program information and data instructions via an Internet modem connection. Daniels further discloses multiple Web page arrangements for displaying the program information for user selection. Figure 23 shows the Web page that is displayed when a user navigates through the "day" option of column A. Column B pops up with a list of the days of the week. Columns C, D and E pop up and the user makes the desired selections. Column F pops up with the program schedule information. Once the user selects a program, column G pops up with the option of recording the program with a VCR (p. 15, paragraph 150 & Fig. 23). The examiner notes that the program table of Figure 23 simultaneously displays "a plurality of programs" as shown in column F. As noted in the cited passage, each program has a corresponding Record button that is displayed in Column G when the user selects a program. As such, the examiner notes that the programs have “respective request buttons for record reservation data, such that each displayed program has a corresponding request button for record reservation data,” as currently claimed. Thus, the examiner maintains that Daniels discloses “a server configured to store a program table simultaneously displaying a plurality of programs with respective request buttons for record reservation data, such that each displayed program has a corresponding request button for record reservation data,” as currently claimed.

The examiner acknowledges the applicant’s argument that, in Figure 23 of Daniels, each program that is simultaneously displayed does not have its own request button for record reservation data; however, the examiner respectfully disagrees. The current claim language requires the simultaneous display of a plurality of programs that have respective request buttons for record reservation data, but does not require that all of the plurality of programs and all of the respective request buttons be displayed simultaneously. The examiner agrees that the three buttons (Goto Program, Record, and Rec.&GotoProgram) only appear after the other different columns are navigated through; however, the examiner notes that the Record button in Column G corresponds to the specific program selected in Column F. Daniels states that, when a user chooses a program to record, VCR control information is received from the network that corresponds to that particular program (p. 13, paragraph 131 & Fig. 7). Thus, the “plurality of programs” have “respective request buttons for record reservation data, such that each displayed program has a corresponding request button for record reservation data,” as currently claimed.

Further regarding claims 15, 19, 23, and 27, Daniels discloses that, in the Web page of Figure 23, a user must select a program button from Column F before they can select to record the program (p. 15, paragraph 150 & Fig. 23). Therefore, the program buttons 1-22 in Column F can also be interpreted to be “request buttons for record reservation data,” as currently claimed. This also meets the limitation of “a program table simultaneously displaying a plurality of programs with respective request buttons for record reservation data, such that each displayed program has a corresponding request button for record reservation data,” as currently claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 15, 16, 19, 20, 23, 24, 27, 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Daniels.

Referring to claims 15, 16, 19, 20, 23, 24, 27, and 28, Daniels discloses an information processing apparatus/method, comprising a server configured to store a program table simultaneously displaying a plurality of programs with respective request buttons for record reservation data, such that each displayed program has a corresponding request button for record reservation data; the server further configured to allow a user to select programs on the program table by selecting one of the respective request buttons for record reservation data on the program table corresponding to a respective program, the user accessing the server from a remote device through a network; and the server further configured to transmit record reservation data to the remote device of the user based on the user selections of the request buttons for record reservation data in the program table, the transmitted record reservation data for controlling the recording of a picture at the user remote device, and including data for specifying a channel, data indicating the date and time for starting the recording, and data (duration data) indicating the date and time for terminating the recording to a picture recording apparatus (p. 3, paragraphs 24, 25; p. 13, paragraphs 130, 131, 133-136; p. 14, paragraphs 140-146; p. 15, paragraphs 146, 150, 151; p. 17, paragraphs 165-168; & Figs. 7-11, 15-19, 23-26, 36, 37-41).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 17, 18, 21, 22, 25, 26, 29, 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Daniels in view of vCalendar Specification, v0.4.

Referring to claims 17, 21, 25, and 29, Daniels discloses the information processing apparatus/method according to claims 15, 19, 23, and 27, respectively. Daniels also discloses that a calendar scheduling application is operated depending on VCR control information (p. 13, paragraph 136). Daniels further discloses that VCR control information can be updated via email (p. 14, paragraph 140). Daniels does not disclose that the transmitted data is data of a v-calendar system. vCalendar specification, v0.4 discloses the use of the vCalendar format in point-to-point communication (p. 1, paragraph 4), where vCalendar data streams are created with a vCalendar Writer and are read with a vCalendar reader (p. 1, paragraph 6). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time that the invention was made to modify Daniels to include the use of a vCalendar format, such as that taught by vCalendar Specification, v0.4 in order to collect and communicate PDI information across e-mail (p. 1, paragraph 2).

Referring to claims 18, 22, 26, and 30, the combination of Daniels and vCalendar specification, v0.4 teach the information processing apparatus according to claims 15, 19, 23, and 27, respectively, wherein the transmitted data comprises text data including the information specifying the date and time of starting the recording, the recording start date and time specifying information being stated next to the information indicating the start of the recording reservation data "BEGIN:VCALENDAR" (vCalendar Specification v0.4 p. 5, 2.2.1), "DTSTART:" (vCalendar Specification v0.4 p. 6, 2.1.2), the information specifying the date and time of end of recording, the recording end date and time specifying information being stated next to "DTEND:" (vCalendar Specification v0.4 p. 23, paragraph 2.3.11), the information specifying a channel for recording, the channel specifying information being stated next to "LOCATION:" (vCalendar Specification v0.4 p. 24, 2.3.15), the name of a program for recording, recorded next to "DESCRIPTION:" (vCalendar Specification v0.4 p. 6, 2.1.3), and the information "END:VCALENDAR" (vCalendar Specification v0.4 p. 5, 2.2.1) indicating the end of the recording reservation data.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
